The putk of Dt. Shvapnel to Commander Beauchamp. Before we give ear to the recital of Dr. Shrapnel sletter to his pupil in politics by the mouth of Captain Baskellety it is necessary to defend this gentleman, as he would handsomely have defended himself, from the charge that he entertained ultimate designs in regard to the really abominable scrawl, which was like a childs drawing of ocean with here and there a sail capsized, and excited his disgust almost as much as did the contents his great indignation. He was prepared to read it, and stood blown out for the task, but it was temporarily too much for him. My dear colonel, look at it, I entreat you, he said, handing the letter for exhibition, after fixing his eye-glass, and dropping it in repulsion. The common sentiment of mankind is offended by heterodoxy in mean attire; for there we see the self convicted villain the criminal caught in the act; we try it and convict it by instinct without the ceremony of a Ojmy: and so thoroughly aware of our promptitude in Othis respect has our arch-enemy become since his mediaeval disgraces that his particular advice to his followers is now to scrupulously copy the world in externals; never to appear poorly clothed, nor to impart deceptive Mcommunications in bad handwriting.(Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and dont occur in the book.)About the Publisher Forgotten Books is a publisher of historical writings, such as: Philosophy, Classics, Science, Religion, History, Folklore and
