

A Memoir of Captain W. Thornton Bate (Classic Reprint)

Christian life. Hedley Vicars and Havelock were not less brave soldiers because they were not ashamed to confess Christ. And it will be seen in these pages, how a SAILOR may unite to professional capacity and to personal valour, the meek and devoted service of a disciple of the Cross. To young men especially the book is commended, in the hope that it may stimulate some lagging steps and encourage some fainting hearts. The engravings (except the last) are from originals sketched by Captain Bate. The portrait is from a photograph taken just previous to his last departure from England. A ny profits arising from the present edition will be given to aid the Mission-work in China and in Japan.
